

The Sisters of Charity
Ecospirituality Reflection Group invites you to a presentation

Our Daily Bread: A Matter of Faith, Environment and Justice

With Sister Jeanne Goyette, OP

When we buy and eat food we are directly connected to The Source of Life. Each component of the food system has an influence not only on our health, but also on the environment, climate change and human justice issues. We will explore these influences in the context of our faith, the sacredness of creation and our relationship with others.

Sr. Jeanne Goyette, OP is a Caldwell Dominican who has been involved in Eco-Spirituality and Environmental Issues for many years. She has taught at all levels of education and is a certified spiritual director who has led retreats, workshops and study groups. Sr. Jeanne earned an M.A. from Fordham University where she focused on the integration of spirituality and ecology. She presently serves as Chairperson of the Caldwell Dominican Universe and Creation Committee, and is a member of the Northeast Dominican Earth Council and the Caldwell Environmental Commission.
